CULTURE OF THE ROSE

PLANTING

January, February and March are the best months, but should the season be favorable, and with a little extra care, you can still plant during the early part of April. The plants sent during those months are what we call dormant two-year-old plants, and average from one and a half to two and a half feet in height, and are taken up without soil around the roots. Should the purchaser be unable to plant them immediately, they will take no harm to remain in the ground for a few days, or they can be laid up and "heeled" in the ground ready to set out. The bushes sent out are already pruned. Our plants are budded on the wild root; by so doing we can get a strong root for the rose; our "stocks" are always disbudded, but sometimes it happens that a sucker grows from the root; planters should be careful to keep all suckers (if any), from BELOW the bud, cut away, otherwise the stock outgrows the rosebud itself.

Roses give the best results when planted in good, heavy soil, to which may be added some good old stable manure, but remember that it ought to be well decayed. DISEASES

You must not expect in the genial climate of California to have your roses entirely free from insects, but they are few and easily controlled.

APHIS, or GREEN FLY, is a small green louse, appearing on the young, tender shoots and buds. They are very prolific in breeding. Through their tender beak they suck the juices of the plants, always working at the tender shoots, and will in a short time, if unmolested, destroy the vigor and vitality of any plant they infest. REMEDIES: "Black Leaf 40" is the best remedy (see Insecticides).

MILDEW. When your plants become covered with a whitish-looking mould or dust, the disease is mildew. Unless a very severe attack, it will probably not kill them, but retard their growth. It is caused, we believe, by sudden atmospheric changes and is generally worse in the spring when the nights are cold and the days are warm. Dust them in the morning with powdered SULPHUR, or if the disease has made its appearance, syringe with a solution of sulphide of potassium.

ROSE SLUG. About the size of the common house fly, and comes from the ground in early spring. The best remedies are powdered white hellebore or a solution of whale oil soap.

ROSE BUG. Is of a grayish color, and about half an inch in length. It appears suddenly in early spring, and feeds upon the opening buds and flowers; which if untreated, not only kill the flower buds, but injure the blossoms of the old stems. The best remedy is to spray them overhead at night to keep the foliage free from dust.

A few remarks on this important point are now necessary. This should be done during the months of January and February: at that time the bushes are in a dormant condition. Cut back to about six or seven inches from the old wood, thinning out all weak wood and leaving about five or six shoots, according to size of plant: use the same method that the orchardist does to his fruit trees, and you will be about right. The idea is not to leave too much wood on the plant. If you follow this method you will have large roses with long stems. If you fail in pruning and thinning out, you will have a plethora of small blooms.

SOIL AND POSITION

There are few places in the garden where the rose will not succeed. Our California soil is pre-eminently adapted for the health of the rose, and sunlight we have to our heart's content: only bear in mind, do not plant your roses in a too shady place, and if your soil is sandy, add a quantity of loam and old manure to enrich it, as the rose delights in good heavy rich soil.

WATERING

The best way to do this is to dig a ditch around your bushes and run the water into it, after filling up the dry soil: by this means the water gets to the roots. Avoid surface watering, which in a great many cases never reaches the roots, and only tends to bake and harden the surface. Better one GOOD WATERING once a week than SPRINKLING them every day. Occasionally spray them overhead at night to keep the foliage free from dust. You can also give them during the summer months liquid cow manure every two or three weeks.

We should have more of our California Roads planted in this manner.

However, when the trees were unpacked everything was found to be in good condition.

FRUIT TREES AND SMALL FRUITS

The California Cultivator (a paper devoted to horticulture in this state) submitted to us the following questions and asked on fruit tree planting in California, and we receive such questions by giving the questions and our reply. We know it is greatly needed by tree planters. Orchard after orchard has been set out, only to prove a failure because owners did not understand this question.

1. How many months are included in the best planting period, i. e., how early may fruit trees be taken from nursery in fall and how late may they be planted?
   1. Late December, January, February, and early March.

2. Where is it best to plant them, i. e., can you give a general idea as to planting figs, apples, pears, cherries, walnuts, peaches, and such other fruits? Of course, if you covered all the fruits, this would take too much time, but whatever information you can give is greatly needed by tree planters. Orchard after orchard has been set out, only to prove a failure because owners did not understand this question.
   2. Figs should be set out in the warmer sections, principally the San Joaquin and Sacramento Valleys, and the other fruits mentioned can be planted from Mendocino to San Diego. The intending planter, however, must use his own judgment about the best locations for each of these fruits.

3. What age and size of tree is best?
   3. The best tree to plant out is what nurserymen call “one-year-old” trees; the tree is a year older, so this practically makes the trees two years old, but nurserymen style them “one-year-old”; either three to four feet high or four to six feet high.

4. How large and how deep should holes be?
   4. In sedimentary land, the hole does not require to be so very large, 1 ½ feet square will cover it. In heavier soil two feet will be necessary.

5. Is it best to plant any deeper in well-prepared soil than tree was set in nursery?
   5. Plant a little deeper than what they were in the nursery— not more than one inch.

6. Would you recommend close pruning of roots before planting or simply trimming mutilated ends? If you favor close trimming of roots, would you go to the extremes recommended in the Stringfellow method?
   6. We recommend medium cutting back of the roots. We would not go to the extremes as Mr. Stringfellow does, although we practice it a great deal in our nurseries when we are lining out young stock, and have good success with it.

7. Would you advise use of fertilizer or manure, either in hole or on surface, at time of planting?
   7. Trees should be pruned after planting, not before. They should be cut back about to 2 ½ to 3 ½ feet; peaches and almonds should have some of the laterals left; prune these to two or three inches from the stem; the main stem has often blind eyes; apricots, prunes, pears, apples and plums can be trimmed to single stem.

8. If irrigation water is available, would you settle dirt around the trees with water or by tamping?
   8. In the drier sections it is a good idea to use irrigation to settle the soil around the roots after planting, but in the northern parts and in the Santa Clara Valley, where the rainfall is good during the months of January and February, this is not necessary. Work the soil carefully around the roots; in light soil heavier tamping can be done than in heavy, wet land.

9. Would you advise use of fertilizer or manure, either in hole or on surface, at time of planting?
   9. In planting large orchards no fertilizing is done.

10. Is any advantage gained by protecting trunks of newly planted trees from rays of sun? If so, what method is best?
   10. It is very necessary to protect the trunks of young trees during the first summer months, either by tulle tree protectors, shakes set on the sunny side, or by wrapping newspaper and tying with a cord. This keeps the tree from getting sunburnt and is certainly of great benefit to the young tree.

To find out how many trees it takes to plant one acre—Multiply the distance in feet between the rows by the distance the plants are apart in the rows, and the product will be the number of square feet for each plant or hill, which, divided into the number of feet in an acre (43,560), will give the number of plants or trees to the acre.
The months of November to April are ideal for the setting out of evergreen trees and shrubs; many homes are now made beautiful by the intelligent planting of these; they add so much to the home, and the cost is so reasonable that not a house should be without this adornment. In order to further this laudable work, we take pleasure in offering a few suggestions.

For the average requirements we think the following list will be found about right: The Italian Cypress or the Arizona Blue Cypress will be what you will require for pyramid shaped plants; the Abelia, a very fine variety having pinkish-white flowers in clusters; Berberis Darwini, foliage small, glossy green, flowers yellow; Coprosma, sometimes called "Mirror Plant" on account of its very glossy leaves which shine as though varnished; the Cotoneasters and Crataegus are those shrubs which bear such lovely red and orange colored berries in the fall and winter months; Diosma ("Breath of Heaven") is a lovely low growing shrub bearing small white flowers, the foliage when pressed in the fingers emits a sweet odor; the Heathers produce small bell-shaped flowers in great profusion and are much admired; Genista Racemosus belongs to the Broom family, is of rather dwarf habit, flowers in long racemes of striking yellow; the Spanish Broom is another favorite, this variety is larger growing than the preceding and has canary yellow flowers borne in great profusion during summer and fall months; Lonicera Nitida is another shrub we can recommend, it is of quick growth, and has small glossy leaves, can be trimmed like a boxwood if so desired; Pittosporum Crassifolia you will fall in love with, the underside of the leaves are sea-green in color, it bears seed pods which when ripe burst open and show the red seeds, perhaps you have noticed this shrub and wondered what it was, you should have noticed of these by all means; Oregon Grape (Mahonia), lovely glossy holly-like foliage; the Pink Crepe Myrtle you very likely are acquainted with, one does not see many in this vicinity, but in valleys they are wonderful. Why not plant some Fuchsias? Your garden would not be complete without them; take the Baby Fuchsia, for instance; don't you think they are charming? The Laurustinus is also good, flowers very showy; the English Myrtle must also be remembered, leaves dart shaped, small and shiny, and when bruised emit a pleasant aromatic odor, flowers white in clusters.

The different species of Veronicas are much used in beautifying of homes; the flowers are of various shades of blue, and one variety has ruby colored flowers; there are also three low growing kinds that are of dwarf habit, Cupressoides, Buxifolia and Traversii; they grow like Boxwoods, but more satisfactory, we think; if you have any little spaces on the walks to your house, use either of these.

How about a nice border? Would you care to have one? then use the Dwarf Boxwood; this never grows very high, foliage nice pleasing green. If you don't care for this then try the Santolina, foliage sage green; requires trimming about twice a year. The Sea Pink (Armeria) is good for edging and has pretty pink flowers. Feverfeu (Golden Feather) of course you know, as it is much used for borders.

Would you care to have some trees on your sidewalk? If so, get neighbors together and agree upon one variety; a conglomeration of varieties on the sidewalk is heart-breaking and should not be allowed. The Black Acacia and Acacia Latifolia are ideal for this purpose; these two varieties can be trimmed to suit. Some people like the Purple Leaved Plum, very nice, and some use the Hawthorn for sidewalk, but to our way of thinking, the sidewalk is no place for it; it is all right in some place in the back garden where you can go and visit it on a nice dewy morning, when in bloom, and the sweet fragrance will carry you back to the days of your youth. Oh! don't forget the Silver Birch and Mountain Ash; they are very dear to us all.
